

Sarah Nesbitt Artecona

Sarah Nesbitt Artecona is the current Chair of Girl Scouts of Tropical Florida, having been sworn in on January 2023. Born in Coral Gables, Fl during Hurricane Betsy, she is a proud fourth generation Floridian. Sarah herself was a girl scout in 1972 with her mom, also a girl scout, being her troop leader. You could say she has girl scouts in her blood.

Professionally, Sarah's career has spanned from Miami-Dade County Communications Director to twenty years at the University of Miami, serving as spokesperson and as Associate Vice President of Government Relations. In this role she worked closely with President Donna Shalala and was the point person for the University's municipal, Chamber of Commerce, and business organization relations. She created Collegetown, a university/neighbor relations program for the City of Coral Gables' 50,000 residents.

Today she is a consultant with the ADG Strategy Group, managing Nicklaus Children's Health System's community outreach portfolio.

She has been an active Board member of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce (past Board Chair), the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce, the American Red Cross Greater Miami and the Keys, Junior League of Miami and the American Cancer Society. Sarah was a member of Leadership Florida Class XXXVII and Leadership Miami. She was a Board of Trustees member of Gulliver Schools, Goodwill Industries. She is currently the Chair of the Board of Directors of the Girl Scouts of Tropical Florida.

She was named by Miami Today as a "Best of Community Involvement" and by the New Times as "Best Civic Lady." A graduate of the University of Alabama, She and her husband Mario, CEO of Habitat for Humanity of Greater Miami, live in South Miami. Her favorite Girl Scout cookie flavor is Thin Mint.
